What makes LRT® certification different?

Master Trainers

The co-founders of the Leadership Resilience Group have adopted an intimate and hands-on approach to the certification process. Using the latest scientific research and techniques participants are supported, guided and ultimately empowered to use the LRT® in positive and impactful ways. Accredited LRT® practitioners receive an LRT® Kit which includes all the materials and resources needed to administer the LRT® and provide on-going impactful coaching.

Throughout the three-day certification program participants will access a suite of tools and practice using them in many different contexts. The LRT® and its application can drive improved leadership and resilience outcomes at individual, team and organisational levels. Participants are provided access to resources that include an on-line library of case studies, articles, videos, images and white papers.

Creating a Resilience Culture

Ongoing use of the LRT® within an organisation can help to create a culture defined by resilience and leadership effectiveness. The tool is a highly cost-effective option for any organisation wanting to create an impactful and sustained leadership outcome that serves to restore the long-term wellbeing of its people. We are committed to helping individual and organisations to unleash their collective capability, intelligence and resilience.
